FOREWORD

THIS genealogy was compiled for Mrs. John Rainey McGinley (Sarah Jane Atterbury), and was privately published in a work entitled Atterbury and Allied Families. That book having a very limited circulation, the Atterbury material, with the courteous permission of Mrs. McGinley, has been rearranged and reprinted for a wider distribution.

The arrangement of material is the one generally found in modern genealogies. Each head of a family is given a number, in a sequence beginning with the first settler who is No. 1. By looking ahead to the given number the succeeding generation will be found. The superior or raised numbers (as Lewis<sup>4</sup>) indicate the degree of descent from the founder of the family in America.

In some of the earlier generations the double calendar is used. It will be recalled that in England and her Colonies, until 1752, the year began on March 25th and March was reckoned the first month of the year. It was frequent in the Colonies for a period of some years to use double dating for the days between January 1st and March 25th.

The authors are grateful to the many members of the family who have been kind enough to supply information. Like all compilers of genealogies, they regret the many unanswered letters and the resulting gaps in the record.

ENGLISH ANCESTRY

THERE is apparently only one Atterbury family in the United States, which was established at a comparatively late date, and is descended from a single ancestor, Job Atterbury. For this reason the family is a small one and the name comparatively infrequent in this country. Nor is it a usual name in England. It is a matter of interest to note that the well-known Genealogist's Guide, by G. W. Marshall, LL.D., Rouge Croix Pursuivant of Arms, consisting of references to the printed material bearing on English families, does not mention the name Atterbury. Of the several familiar works on the origin of English surnames, such as Ferguson's, Barber's, Wagner's, Yonge's, and Bardsley's, only the last named discusses Atterbury. Bardsley states that it was at first a matter of course to put in the enclitics that associated the personal or Christian name with that which is called the surname, and that the chief of the Saxon (as distinct from the Norman or Latin) definitive terms was ate or att, meaning "at the." For the sake of euphony, when a vowel preceded the name proper, this term was extended to atten. In the larger and more formal Rolls this form seldom appeared, owing to the use of Norman-French and Latin for these lists, but in the smaller abbey records and in those of a more private interest, the Saxon enclitic was to be found. The writers of the period frequently used such a form. Thus in Piers Plowman appears: "For some tyme I served Symme atte-Style and was his prentice." This atte or att has occasionally been included with the sobriquet of locality, and thus become a recognized part of the surname itself. In this way, John atte Wood became Attwood or Atwood, Watt at the Well evolved into Atwell, and atte Borough became Attenborough or Atterbury.

The tradition has always persisted in the American Atterbury family that the founder of the family, Job Atterbury, was a close relative of the Right Reverend Francis Atterbury, the distinguished Bishop of Rochester, and this tradition has naturally been closely studied in the preparation of this work.

The present authors carried on personal researches in London, after some preliminary investigations had been completed by the well-known English genealogist, Miss Ethel Stokes, F.S.G., of London. It early seemed certain that the roots of the Atterbury pedigree were to be found in Northamptonshire. Folkestone Williams, the English antiquary, for instance, has written: "The Atterburys flourished for many years at Great Houghton in Northamptonshire and were an eminently religious race." Extended researches for this work were consequently carried on in county Northampton by an antiquary expert in that field, the Reverend H. Isham Longden, M.A., H.C.F., F.S.A., F.S.G., of Northampton. As a result of the various investigations a history for eight generations of the English Atterburys is presented. The dates and places given in the earlier generations are largely taken from the reports of Mr. Longden.

1. An Atterbury, whose Christian name is unknown, married and had the following children:
  2. i. John.
  3. ii. William.
  - iii. Richard, living in 1588.

2. John Atterbury, of Great Houghton, county Northampton, yeoman, was buried on April 24, 1588, at Great Houghton. He married on April 29, 1559, Elizabeth Perkes. John Atterbury's will (P.C.C. 44 Rutland) was executed on April 11, 1588. He asked to be buried in the Great Houghton church. He mentioned the four children of his brother, William Atterbury. "I forgive my brother Richard tenne shillings." To his second son, Lawrence Atterbury, he left the sum, respectable for the times, of £100 when he reached the age of twenty-two. The eldest son, Lewis Atterbury, who was made the sole executor, had apparently been previously provided for, as he was not the subject of any bequests. Lewis was asked to take care of the testator's "well beloved mother-in-law." The will also mentioned John's daughter Alice and daughter Margaret and her husband and money was left to maintain the church bells and the highway.

Children:

- i. Margaret, who was baptized on June 30, 1560, at Great Houghton, and married there on December 4, 1587, Richard Winckles.
4. ii. Lewis, who was baptized on February 10, 1561/2, at Great Houghton.
- iii. Alice, who was baptized on September 6, 1567, at Great Houghton, and married there on July 21, 1590, William Lelan, of Brixworth, county Northampton. (For his family see the Heralds' Visitations of Northampton.)
- iv. Lawrence, who was baptized on May 23, 1573, at Great Houghton. He was mentioned in his father's will, as stated above.

3. William Atterbury, of Great Houghton, married Joan Denton at Great Houghton on May 17, 1577.

Children:

- i. Lawrence, who was baptized on September 13, 1578, at Great Houghton.
- ii. John, who was baptized on September 26, 1580, at Great Houghton.
- iii. Danrith, who was baptized on January 18, 1583/4, at Great Houghton.
- iv. Lewis, who was baptized on September 21, 1585, at Great Houghton.
- v. Thomas, who was baptized on September 17, 1587, at Great Houghton.
- vi. Stephen, who was baptized on March 8, 1589/90, at Great Houghton.
- vii. William, who was baptized on February 16, 1592/3, at Great Houghton, and was buried there on February 22, 1592/3.
- viii. George, who was baptized on May 24, 1594, at Great Houghton, and was buried there on May 27, 1594.

4. Lewis Atterbury, of Great Houghton, county Northampton, gentleman, was baptized on February 10, 1561/2, at Great Houghton, and buried there on August 29, 1631. On June 30, 1589, at Hardingstone, county Northampton, he married Mary Harvey. She was one of the two daughters of Stephen Harvey, of Cotton in Hardingstone, who was Auditor of the Duchy of Lancaster. Mary (Harvey) Atterbury was buried on June 10, 1623, at Great Houghton. Lewis Atterbury married, secondly, Elizabeth ———, whose surname is unknown. She survived her husband.

Lewis Atterbury had become Lord of the Manor of Houghton Magna or Great Houghton sometime during his life and left the manor to his widow by his will. This will (P.C.C. 105 St. John) was executed on August 11, 1631, and mentions Stephen as his eldest son, and Stephen's wife, Frances, and their children. The sons, William and Richard, received £200 each and the son, Francis, had £300. The daughters, Mary Toone and Dorothy, then unmarried, were mentioned and his brothers-in-law, Stephen and William Harvey.

Children by the first wife:

5. i. Stephen, who was baptized on February 10, 1591/2, at Hardingstone, county Northampton.
- ii. Lewis, who was baptized on December 1, 1594, at Great Houghton, and was buried there on January 23, 1594/5.
- iii. Elizabeth, who was baptized on September 28, 1596, at Great Houghton.
- iv. Mary, who was baptized on June 21, 1598, at Great Houghton, and married May 10, 1631, at Milton Malsor, county Northampton, the Rev. Thurston Toone, who was rector of Collingtree, county Northampton, from 1630 to 1638. He died on August 18, 1638. His will (at Archdeaconry of Northampton) was executed on August 12, 1638, and probated on December 8, 1638.
- v. John, who was baptized on April 6, 1599, at Great Houghton.
6. vi. Francis, who was baptized on November 8, 1601, at Great Houghton.
- vii. Dorothy, who was baptized on September 7, 1606, at Great Houghton, and married October 17, 1642, at Milton Malsor, county Northampton, John Randolph, of Hannington, and later of Towcester, both county Northampton, attorney-at-law. He was baptized on February 6, 1619/20, at Little Houghton, county Northampton. He was the uncle of William Randolph, who went to America and founded a notable family in Virginia. Randolph was buried on April 21, 1680, and his wife on September 20, 1678, both at Towcester.

- viii. William, who was baptized on June 7, 1608, at Great Houghton, and moved to London.
- ix. Richard, who was baptized on August 24, 1609, at Great Houghton, and became a fishmonger in London. His will (P.C.C. 71 Lee) was executed in July, 1638, and mentioned his brothers and sisters.

5. Stephen Atterbury, of Great Houghton, county Northampton, Esquire, was baptized on February 10, 1591/2, at Hardingstone, county Northampton. He became a counselor-at-law. He matriculated as a pensioner at St. John's College, Cambridge University, at Easter, 1609, and was admitted at the Middle Temple on November 17, 1610. On May 16, 1629, at Milton Malsor, county Northampton, he married Frances Pickaver.

Children:

- i. Elizabeth, who was baptized on March 15, 1629/30, at Great Houghton.
- ii. Mary, who was buried on October 24, 1631, at Great Houghton.
- iii. Lewis, who was baptized on December 13, 1634, at Great Houghton, and was buried there on December 16, 1634.
- iv. Barbara, who was baptized on November 24, 1636, at Great Houghton.
- v. Frances, who was baptized on March 22, 1638/9, at Great Houghton.

6. Francis Atterbury, of Great Houghton, county Northampton, gentleman, was baptized on November 8, 1601, at Great Houghton, and was buried on June 21, 1673, at Milton Malsor, county Northampton. His will (Archdeaconry of Northampton, 3d series, X:94) was executed in June, 1673, and probated on June 26, 1673. He married three times. The first wife, Elizabeth ———, was buried on March 22, 1640/1, at Milton Malsor. The second wife, Elizabeth Pickaver, whom he married on June 9, 1642, at Great Houghton, died on January 14, 1647/8, and was buried at Milton Malsor on the 17th of January. The third wife was Alice Tibbes, daughter of Thomas Tibbes, yeoman, and his wife, Dorothy, of Bugbrooke and later of Blisworth, both county Northampton. She was baptized on October 9, 1628, at Bugbrooke, and died on June 21, 1704, being buried the following June 23rd at Milton, county Northampton. Her will (Archdeaconry of Northampton, 3d series, L: 269) was executed on May 9, 1691, and probated on August 25, 1704, by her daughter, Dorothy Atterbury.

Francis Atterbury seems to have had the entail of the Manor of Great Houghton, as his son later held it. He matriculated at Magdalen Hall, Oxford, on May 5, 1620, "aged sixteen years." He received the degree of B.A. on October 23, 1623, and that of M.A. on June 15, 1626. He was made deacon on April 11, 1627, and priest on April 12, 1627, as of St. Edmund Hall. He became rector of Milton Malsor on April 16, 1627, and rector of Maid's Morton, Buckinghamshire, in 1666.

Children by the first wife:

- i. Elizabeth, who was born on February 1, 1629/30, at Milton Malsor, and was buried there on October 30, 1630.
7. ii. Lewis, who was born on April 18, 1631, at Milton Malsor, county Northampton.
- iii. Francis, who was baptized on September 6, 1632, at Milton Malsor, county Northampton, and was buried there on December 22, 1632.

By the second wife:

- iv. Elizabeth, who was baptized on April 11, 1643, at Milton Malsor, and married there on October 13, 1670, the Rev. Thomas Gore of Flore, rector of Maidford, county Northampton. He was buried on August 31, 1689, and she on January 20, 1697/8, both at Towcester, county Northampton.

- v. Frances, who was baptized on August 20, 1644, at Milton Malsor, and married there on April 29, 1669, the Rev. John Stannard, rector of Simpson, Buckinghamshire.
- vi. Mary, who was baptized on October 23, 1645, at Milton Malsor.
- vii. Abigail, who was baptized on May 5, 1647, at Milton Malsor, and was buried there ult. February, 1671/2.

By the third wife:

- viii. Francis, who was born on March 10, 1651, at Milton Malsor, and was baptized on April 3, 1651. He matriculated at Christ Church, Oxford, March 29, 1667/8, "aged sixteen years." He received the degree of B.A. from St. Alban Hall in 1670, and that of M.A. in 1673, and became barrister-at-law of Gray's Inn on April 22, 1676. He was reduced to want and £5 was allowed him by Gray's Inn in 1724, and again in 1725.
- ix. Dorothy, who was baptized on October 10, 1652, at Milton Malsor, and was buried there on October 19, 1724. She married there on May 13, 1711, Samuel Lucas, of Roxton (Wroxton), county Oxford, gentleman.
- x. Mary, who was born on March 4, 1653/4, at Milton Malsor, and married there on June 17, 1680, Theophilus Pettifer, of Northampton, draper. She was buried on October 8, 1684, at All Saints, Northampton.
- xi. Thomas, who was born on March 1, 1654/5, at Milton Malsor, and was buried there on April 21, 1655.
- xii. John, who was born on August 27, 1656, at Milton Malsor, and was buried there on October 17, 1657.
- xiii. Thomas, who was born on October 3, 1659, at Milton Malsor, and was buried there on August 27, 1660.
- xiv. Sarah, who was born on April 20, 1665, at Milton Malsor, and was buried there on October 3, 1673.
- xv. Martha, who was born on January 25, 1666/7, at Milton Malsor, and was buried there October 11, 1748. She married (1) ——— Cooke, and (2) ——— Hopkins.

- xvi. Alice, who was born on September 27, 1668, at Milton Malsor, and died on October 22, 1727. She was buried on October 24, 1727.

7. Lewis Atterbury was born on April 18, 1631, at Milton Malsor, county Northampton, and was baptized on April 24, 1631. He was drowned on December 7, 1693. On May 3, 1655, at Newport Pagnell, Buckinghamshire, he married Elizabeth Giffard, a daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Harding) Giffard, of Caldecott in Newport Pagnell. Thomas Giffard's wife, who was a daughter of Edmond Harding, died as the wife of Thomas White of Caldecott.

Lewis Atterbury matriculated at Christ Church, Oxford, in 1647, at the age of sixteen years. From Oxford he received the degree of B.A. in 1649, that of M.A. in 1651, and that of D.D. in 1660. He was prebendary of Lincoln in 1690. In 1654 he was rector of Great or Long Rissington in Gloucestershire, and in 1657 became rector of Milton (also called Middleton) Keynes in Buckinghamshire, which living he still held when he drew his will.

The Manor of Great Houghton was settled on the Rev. Lewis Atterbury but he gave part of it to his son, Lewis, on the son's marriage. In his will (P.C.C. 23 Box) the father left the balance of the manor to his oldest son. This will was executed on January 21, 1690, and probated in February, 1693/4. The son, Francis, received by the will all the estate the testator had received from "his brother[in-law] Giffard." To his stepmother and his brother and sisters he left each a book. Further: "I give to the poore of Milton in Northamptonshire, where I was borne tenn pounds to be put out in the same manner as my ffather ffrancis Atterbury cleric who was and dyed Rector thereof."

Children:

8. i. Lewis, who was born on May 2, 1656, at Caldecott, Parish of Newport Pagnell, Buckinghamshire.
 ii. ——— (a daughter).
 9. iii. Francis, who was born on March 6, 1662/3, at Milton Keynes, Buckinghamshire.

- iv. Elizabeth, who was born on August 30, 1664, at Milton Keynes, Buckinghamshire.

8. Lewis Atterbury was born on May 2, 1656, at Caldecott, Parish of Newport Pagnell, Buckinghamshire. He died on October 20, 1731, at Bath, and was buried at Highgate, Middlesex. By marriage license dated December 24, 1688, he married at St. Giles in the Fields, London, Penelope Bedingfield, of that London parish. She was a sister of Sir Robert Bedingfield, who became Lord Mayor of London in 1707.

Lewis Atterbury matriculated at Christ Church, Oxford, on April 10, 1674, at the age of seventeen years, and subsequently received the following degrees from Oxford: B.A. in 1679, M.A. in 1680, B.C.L. and D.C.L. in 1687. He was rector of Sywell, county Northampton, from 1685 to 1707, of Shepperton, Middlesex, in 1707, and of Hornsby in 1719.

Dr. Atterbury's will (P.C.C. 296 Isham) was executed on March 16, 1730/1. He asked to be buried in the chapel at Highgate. He was on unfriendly terms with his brother, the Bishop, and in his will deprived the Bishop of his right of succession to his father's land, worth £250 a year, leaving him £100 instead. The Bishop instituted a contest. In his will Dr. Atterbury also mentioned his son-in-law and daughter, George and Penelope Sweetapple, and his nephew, Osborn Atterbury. He gave fifty pounds to "Francis Atterbury of the town of Northampton, dyer." He left money for a monument in the parish church of North Crawley, Buckinghamshire, for his grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Giffard.

Penelope (Bedingfield) Atterbury also left a will (P.C.C. 239 Bolton), which was executed on February 26, 1722, and proved on June 20, 1724. It mentioned her mother, her daughter, and her only grandchild, Penelope Sweetapple.

Children:

- i. Lewis, who was baptized at Sywell, county Northampton, on October 19, 1689, and was buried there on October 22, 1689.
- ii. Bedingfield, who was born in London, and matriculated at Christ Church, Oxford, on April 9, 1712, aged eighteen years. From Oxford he received the degrees of B.A. in 1715, and M.A. in 1718. He died on December 27, 1718, unmarried, and his estate was administered in 1719. He was a priest.

- iii. Penelope, who married George Sweetapple, of London. They had an only child, Penelope.

9. Francis Atterbury was born on March 6, 1662/3, at Milton Keynes, Buckinghamshire, and died in Paris in exile on February 22, 1731/2. He married Katharine Osborn, said to have been a distant relative of the Duke of Leeds.

This was the famous Bishop Atterbury, a distinguished man of letters, politician and prelate. He was prepared for the university at Westminster School and matriculated at Christ Church, Oxford, on December 17, 1680, at the age of seventeen years. He received the degree of B.A. in 1684, and the degrees of M.A. and D.D. in 1687. He entered holy orders in 1687. He had already commenced his literary work and in 1682 had published a translation of Absalom and Ahithopel into Latin verse, and in 1687 he published a pamphlet in answer to an attack on the Reformation. Atterbury ordinarily resided at Oxford, where he was the chief adviser and assistant to Dean Aldrich, of Christ Church, but he occasionally preached in London and his eloquence increased his reputation and he was soon appointed one of the royal chaplains.

The young clergyman continued to write and publish pamphlets and treatises and by the mass of the clergy was soon regarded as their most courageous champion against the bishops. In 1701 he was rewarded with the archdeaconry of Totnes and was made a prebend in Exeter cathedral. In 1704 he was promoted to the deanery of Carlisle, but the Whig party coming into power about this time, he received no further favors. In the year 1710, when there was a fresh outburst of feeling between the High Church and Low Church factions, he again became conspicuous. What were called "his turbulent and aspiring temper, his rare talents for agitation and for controversy" were again signally displayed. He became one of the most active of the pamphleteers who inflamed the nation against the Whig ministry and the Whig parliament.

When the ministry was changed and the parliament dissolved he received many honors, the most important of which was his selection by Queen Anne in 1711 as her chief adviser in ecclesiastical matters, and in August of that same year the sovereign appointed him dean of Christ Church, Oxford. He was almost a complete failure at Oxford and Christ Church suffered considerably. In 1713 he was removed to become Bishop of Rochester. It was expected that he would go much further in the church, because he was the ablest parliamentarian among the clergy, and he probably would have become Archbishop of Canterbury if his party had continued in power. It seems quite certain that he was one of those politicians who were working to provide that at the death of Queen Anne she would be succeeded by the Pretender. Her sudden death spoiled the conspiracy and from that time Bishop Atterbury was out of favor with the government. In fact, he became one of its most bitter opponents.

He had continued his interest in the cause of the Pretender and was in correspondence with him. Consequently, he was arrested in 1721 on the discovery of a plot in support of James, and in 1722 was committed to the Tower. Having been released after a few months, he was nevertheless deprived of all his spiritual dignities and banished for life. After a short stay at Brussels he went to Paris and became the leader among the Jacobite refugees there. Finding that his advice to James was not followed, he left Paris, and lived elsewhere in France for some years. He later returned to Paris, where the Pretender reinstated him in his favor, recognizing that he was the most able of his followers. The Bishop did not long survive after this and died on February 22, 1731/2. His body was brought to England and buried with great privacy in Westminster Abbey. His literary friendships should not be overlooked, as he was a close friend of Addison, Swift, Gay, Prior, and Pope. This account has been largely drawn from the Encyclopaedia Britannica (11th ed.). The Memoirs and Correspondence of Francis Atterbury were published in 1869 and a considerable portion of his correspondence has been published in other works. He is noticed at length in the Dictionary of National Biography, and H. C. Beeching published a biography of him in 1909.

Children:

- i. Mary, who was baptized on October 23, 1698, and married, in 1715, William Morice. She died in 1729, leaving issue.
10. ii. Osborn, who was born at Chelsea in or about 1705.

10. Osborn Atterbury was born at Chelsea in or about 1705 and was buried on September 20, 1752, at Great Houghton, county Northampton. He was elected from Westminster to Christ Church in 1722 and matriculated at Christ Church, Oxford, on June 19, 1722, at the age of seventeen. There he continued as a student until 1725, and early in 1726 he went to Barbados. From there he sailed in November, 1726, for India, and in December, 1728, went to China. As a youth he was described as "a very strange young man, and addicted to low company." After the deaths of his uncle, Dr. Lewis Atterbury, and of his father, who ignored him in his will, Osborn Atterbury returned to England in 1732, and was ordained by Bishop Hoadley, his father's enemy. In 1742 he received the rectory of Great Houghton, Northants, and in June, 1746, obtained the rectory of Oxhill (Exhall), Warwickshire, worth £200 a year, "where he passed the latter part of his life with great propriety, and died, much regretted, in 1752." Osborn Atterbury of Chelsea, Middlesex, married by license of August 10, 1732, at St. Anne's, Black-Friars, Sarah Ashworth, of Thistleworth, Middlesex, who survived him and died at an advanced age in January, 1789, at Bromley College. She was a servant in his brother-in-law William Morice's home, and the daughter of a gardener. By her own statement she was present when Osborn received a shilling from Morice, as executor of the Bishop, and Osborn was interested in her from that time.

Children:

- i. Catherine, who was baptized on July 3, 1733, at Great Houghton.
- ii. Francis, who was baptized on June 28, 1734, at Great Houghton. He was educated at Westminster, and matriculated at Christ Church, Oxford, on May 28, 1755. He received the degree of B.A. there in 1759, that of M.A. in 1763, and that of D.C.L. in 1768. He was proctor at Christ Church in 1760, and in that year was domestic chaplain to the Bishop of Cloyne. In 1770 he was precentor in the Cathedral of Cloyne and in 1776 had the living of Clonmel in the same diocese.

- iii. Sarah, who was baptized on October 10, 1735, at Great Houghton.
- iv. Osborn, who was baptized on October 25, 1736, at Great Houghton, and was buried there on December 10, 1736.
- v. Lewis, who was baptized on January 23, 1737/8, at Great Houghton, and was buried there on March 25, 1739.
- vi. James, who was baptized on November 4, 1739, at Great Houghton.
- vii. Osborn, who was baptized on November 20, 1740, at Great Houghton.
- viii. Charlotte, who was buried on March 6, 1742/3, at Great Houghton.
- ix. Charles, who was baptized on January 4, 1745/6, at Great Houghton, and was buried there on January 17, 1745/6.

It has not been possible to establish the descent of Job Atterbury, who came to America, from the great-grandfather of Bishop Atterbury. He may have been descended from some earlier ancestor of the Bishop. Aside from the family tradition of relationship, which has always been familiar to the American Atterburys, it should not be overlooked that the Christian name of Lewis was most persistent in the Northamptonshire family and that Job Atterbury named his eldest son Lewis and that the name has been frequent in the United States. However, Mr. Longden states: "I have been unable to find any trace of a Job Atterbury, born in or about 1732. I have not met with a Job amongst the Northamptonshire Atterburys at all." Mr. Longden's search was extensive, although he was not asked to exhaust all possibilities. The American family is quite probably descended from the Northamptonshire family, although perhaps not closely related to Bishop Atterbury.

At some remote time the Atterbury family of Northamptonshire began to use a coat-of-arms and there are three recorded types of these arms, all bearing close resemblances. They are here given:

1. Or, three pales sable, a chief vair.
Crest: a bird argent, beaked and legged gules.
2. Paly of eight or and sable, a chief vair.
3. Paly of six, or and gules, a chief vair.

The second arms were those used by Francis Atterbury, the Lord Bishop of Rochester. Like the others, they bear pales and a chief vair.

Some of the less accessible records of the Atterburys collected in England are printed here. If any further research is ever undertaken they will be useful.

JOB ATTERBURY is the first ancestor of the American line of whom there is certain knowledge. He was an "upholder" according to his will, a term having several meanings, but probably here intended to show he was a broker or auctioneer, as he held the leases of several houses and probably dealt in real-estate. He does not mention a store but does refer to a stock of goods. He may have been a tradesman, but it seems unlikely. According to a family record, he was born in 1732, and died in 1802. He died between May 12, 1802, when he drew his will, and May 16, 1802, when he was buried at Burton-on-Trent, county Stafford, England. His home was in Burton-on-Trent and he occupied, at least for the latter part of his life, a house on the east side of High Street, a property he leased from the Earl of Uxbridge. His wife was named Sarah, but her surname is not known. The family record states that she was born in 1730, and died in 1803, but the latter date is incorrect. She was buried at Burton-on-Trent on November 15, 1801, and is not mentioned as living in her husband's will, drawn the following May.

Naturally, an attempt was made to discover the parentage of Job Atterbury. The parish registers at Burton-on-Trent were searched without success. There are Atterburys in Burton-on-Trent now, but they could not assist this inquiry. Mr. J. Atterbury, at present of 101 Shobnall Road, Burton-on-Trent, states that his earliest known ancestor seems to have been George Atterbury, who died March 28, 1770. This George Atterbury had a son, John Atterbury, who married Sarah ——— on November 16, 1767, and had the following three sons: George, born January 8, 1777; Michael, born October 4, 1792; and James, born February 23, 1796. Even this slight pedigree seems not quite certain to Mr. J. Atterbury. The parish register of Burton-on-Trent shows a George, son of George and Elise "Attlebarrow," buried January 8, 1771. The baptisms of Burton between 1720 and 1750 and the marriages between 1736 and 1756 do not mention any of the name Atterbury. It would seem clear that Job Atterbury and George Atterbury came to Burton-on-Trent from some other locality.

The will of Job Atterbury is here given in full:

Will of Job Atterbury of Burton on Trent, co. Stafford, upholder, dated 12 May 1802. (P. C. C. 1667 Kenyon.)

I bequeath to my friends Daniel Dalrymple of Burton on Trent, gent, and Wm. Leedham of the same, grocer, all my messuage or dwellinghouse, with the outhouses, garden, etc., situate on the East side of the High Street in Burton on Trent, now in my own possession, which I lease from the Earl of Uxbridge for 3 lives under the rent of £2.7.6 per annum, and my 3 dwelling houses with the outbuildings, gardens, etc., in Burton Extra, alias Bond End in the parish of Burton on Trent, now or late in the several possessions of Charles Sutton, Joseph Debreux and Joseph Egginbottom, which I hold by lease as above, under the rent 2s 6d per annum and all other my leasehold and real estate whatsoever, in trust to sell the same, and pay one sixth of the proceeds to my son Job Atterbury, one other sixth part amongst the child or children of my daughter Hannah Smith, begotten or to be begotten, if more than one to be equally divided amongst them at their ages of 21, the interest thereof to be paid to the said Hannah Smith during the minority of the said children, for their better support and not subject to the debts or control of her husband. A third sixth part equally among the children of my late daughter Mary Dutton, at their ages of 21; and a like sixth part to the children of my late son Chambers Atterbury; another sixth part to my son George Atterbury; and the remaining sixth to my daughter Sarah Sutton.

To my children Hannah Smith, Sarah Sutton, and George Atterbury, and my daughter-in-law, Catherine Atterbury, widow of my late son Chambers Atterbury, £5, each, for mourning.

To my said daughter Sarah Sutton, all the clothes, linen, and wearing apparel which were her mother's.

To my said trustees, all my household goods and furniture, plate, china, stock in trade of every sort, money, securities for money and personal estate whatsoever, to dispose thereof as they think fit, for the most money they can get, and collect all debts owing to me, and, after payment of my debts, funeral expenses, legacies, etc., the residue to be disposed as my real estate above.

I make my said trustees my executors.

Witnesses: Richard Cleaver, Geo. Wood, junr., Edwd. Phillips.

Proved: 13th September, 1802, by Dan'l Dalrymple and Wm. Leedham als. Leedam, the exors. named in the will.

Job and Sarah (——) Atterbury had the following children:

1. i. JOB<sup>1</sup> (see further).

THE DESCENDANTS OF JOB ATTERBURY

1. JOB<sup>1</sup> ATTERBURY married on June 4, 1778, at Wellington, Shropshire, England, Sarah Bakewell, who was born in 1759 and died on November 14, 1841, aged eighty-two years, at Hudson, New York. She was the daughter of Joseph and Sarah (Woodhouse) Bakewell. Some years after her husband's death, Sarah Atterbury was in New York City, where her sons, Benjamin Bakewell Atterbury and Robert Bakewell Atterbury, were settled, and she signed the covenant of the First Congregational Church (All Souls Church) on February 4, 1821. This was the earliest Unitarian Church in New York City and State.

Job<sup>1</sup> Atterbury was at Castle Donington, Leicestershire, England, in 1779, when his son, Lewis, was born there, and near Liverpool, England, in 1790, when his son, William Benjamin, was born there, and in 1793 was at Loughborough, Leicestershire, where his son, Benjamin Bakewell, was born. After that, one branch of family tradition states that Job Atterbury came to the United States, where his son, Bakewell, was born in 1795. According to this same tradition he died soon afterward at Savannah, Georgia. However, another branch of the family has preserved a strong tradition to the effect that Job<sup>1</sup> never came to this country. In support of this statement, the grandson of Lewis<sup>2</sup> Atterbury, Albert H. Atterbury, states that his father was much interested in the family history and often talked with Lewis<sup>2</sup> Atterbury, and with his aunts, Sarah<sup>2</sup> (Atterbury) Wright and Elizabeth<sup>2</sup> Atterbury, about the family, and that he, Albert H. Atterbury, has never heard from his father, Lewis<sup>2</sup> Atterbury's son, or other members of the family, any statement that Job<sup>1</sup> had come to this country. No trace of Job<sup>1</sup> Atterbury has been found at Savannah, nor is there any record of him in the index of estates for that town or the county in which it lies. Yet the circumstantial statement that his youngest son, Robert Bakewell Atterbury, was born on August 31, 1798, at New Brunswick, New Jersey, presupposes, if true, the father's presence, and the source in which it was found, The Family Book of Bakewell, Page, Campbell, has been found exceedingly accurate in other respects. Although this book was not published until 1896, some of the grandchildren of Job<sup>1</sup> Atterbury were then living, and the author's information was presumably obtained from them. The vital records of New Brunswick do not begin as early as 1798, so confirmation of the child's birth from that source is unfortunately lacking.

In further support of the statement that Job<sup>1</sup> Atterbury did emigrate, is the fact that a silversmith of that name was working at New Haven, Connecticut, in 1799. No record of his apprenticeship to that trade has been found in Staffordshire, England, the region in which his father lived. It would be difficult to believe that a man of this infrequent surname, and of the same Christian name, fortuitously arrived in the United States at the time Job<sup>1</sup> Atterbury is said to have emigrated, and yet prove to be another individual. On the whole, it seems certain that, while Lewis<sup>2</sup> may have preceded his father, Job<sup>1</sup> Atterbury also came to this country and settled at New Haven. The fact that all of his children, except the two who died in infancy, also lived in this country lends force to this argument.

Job Atterbury first appears at New Haven, Connecticut, on January 17, 1800, when he bought five acres of land at Oyster Point for £26, half of which he sold on December 19, 1801, for $70.00. He was a responsible citizen, and on August 13, 1800, he joined Peter Branner in guaranteeing Branner's rental payment for eight and a half years. A judgment of $25.00 was awarded him in November, 1801, in a suit for damages of $50.00 against Timothy Turner, of Hamden. Several small real-estate transactions occurred in 1802: in February, he bought a quarter-acre of land with a dwelling house in the New Township for $4.50, which he resold to the former owner in August of that year, and on December 1, 1802, he leased land in the New Township in the rear of his own garden. In March, 1803, Atterbury brought a successful action on a book debt against Parish Coburn for $20.00. He is last mentioned on November 8, 1804, when he sold to Elisha Frost for $150.00

(showing a substantial profit on the whole transaction) the other half of the five acres at Oyster Point which he had bought in 1800.

His name does not appear in the probate indices at New Haven. Possibly he removed to New York City with his wife and sons, although no trace of him has been found there.

Job and Sarah (Bakewell) Atterbury had the following children:

2. i. Lewis<sup>2</sup>, who was born on April 2, 1779, at Castle Donington, Leicestershire, England (see further).
3. ii. Sarah<sup>2</sup>, who was born on March 7, 1781 (see further).
- iii. Elizabeth<sup>2</sup>, who was born on February 14, 1783, and died at the home of her sister, Sarah, Mrs. Thomas Wright, at Hudson, New York, on August 16, 1858.
- iv. Thomas Bakewell<sup>2</sup>, who was born on January 25, 1785, and died within a year.
- v. Thomas<sup>2</sup>, who was born on February 13, 1788, and died in 1801. He was drowned, while skating, at Middletown, Connecticut.
4. vi. William Benjamin<sup>2</sup>, who was born on December 27, 1790, in the Parish of Livermore, near Liverpool, England (see further).
- vii. Joseph<sup>2</sup>, who was born in May, 1792, and died in February, 1793.
5. viii. Benjamin Bakewell<sup>2</sup>, who was born on August 20, 1793, at Loughborough, Leicestershire, England (see further).
- ix. Bakewell<sup>2</sup>, who was born on April 5, 1795, and died in February, 1796, in the United States.
6. x. Robert Bakewell<sup>2</sup>, who was born on August 31, 1798, at New Brunswick, New Jersey (see further).

SECOND GENERATION

2. LEWIS<sup>2</sup> ATTERBURY (Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on April 2, 1779, at Castle Donington, Leicestershire, England. His will was made and the inventory of his estate was taken in 1872. The will is recorded in Passaic County, New Jersey. He married on September 11, 1803, Catharine Boudinot, daughter of Elisha and Catharine (Smith) Boudinot. Catharine (Boudinot) Atterbury was born on December 2, 1781, and died in 1877 at the home of her son-in-law, Henry Clark Stimson. Catharine (Smith) Boudinot was the daughter of William Peartree Smith, of Elizabethtown, New Jersey. She died on August 30, 1797, at the age of forty-seven years and eight months and was buried at Newark, New Jersey.

Judge Elisha Boudinot was active on behalf of the Revolutionary forces in the Colony of New Jersey. He acted as secretary of the first mass meeting of citizens of Newark, New Jersey, which, in 1775, initiated the Revolutionary struggle in New Jersey. In 1777 he was Secretary of the Council of Safety of New Jersey, and in 1778 was Deputy Commissary of Prisoners, Continental Army, with the rank of major, and later in that year Commissary of Prisoners of New Jersey. On January 1, 1779, a notice was published stating that the Legislature had appointed him Commissary of Prisoners for the State of New Jersey. He also served as Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey.

The following account was written by Lewis<sup>2</sup> Atterbury's son, Edward J. C.<sup>3</sup> Atterbury:

Lewis Atterbury was born at Castle Donnington England 2nd Apr 1779. he was descended from an Old English family living at West Houghton Northamptonshire in 1550. He came to this country when he was about fourteen years of age under the care of his Maternal Uncle Benjamin Bakewell Esq. who founded the glass business in Pittsburg.

He married Catharine daughter of Elisha Boudinot of Newark N J. in 1803—and resided at Baltimore, Md. where he was engaged in the foreign business the firm being Guest, Atterbury

& Buncker, in which he continued till the embargo broke up all importations. In 1812 he removed with his family to Newark, N. J. and was engaged for some years in partnership with Col Decatur in making gunpowder at the Bellona Mills—now Feltville near Scotch Plains; he continued to reside in Newark till 1830—when he removed to New York in order to furnish a home for his sons—fast growing up—1844 He broke up housekeeping, he & his wife making their home with their married daughter at Paterson N. J—where they remained till 1866—when the family removed to New York City—which continued to be his residence till he died Aug 31st 1872—at Whitestone Long Island, a summer residence, in the 94 year of his age—

He was gifted with a remarkable constitution his physician stating at the time of his death that he had not an unsound organ in his body—and if it had not been for a chill brought on by exposure he might have lived several years longer His mind was clear to the last—and he showed a wonderfully retentive memory repeating only a few days before his death a long Latin quotation from Ovid saying he had not seen it for nearly 50 years—

He was a remarkably high-toned gentleman and always showed the greatest disgust at anything savoring of deceit—meanness or trickery—For fifty years he was one of the New Jersey Associates and held the office of Secretary & Treasurer until the property passed into the control of the Railroad Company. His old fellow associates Woolsey—Griswold—King & Nevins had all passed away before him.

Lewis and Catharine (Boudinot) Atterbury had the following children:

- i. Julia Gertrude<sup>3</sup>, who was born on September 9, 1804, and died on September 16, 1804, aged seven days. She was buried at Newark, New Jersey.
- ii. Mary<sup>3</sup>, who died in 1840. She married George Coit, of Buffalo, New York. They had no children.
7. iii. Lewis<sup>3</sup>, who was born in or about 1807, perhaps at Baltimore, Maryland (see further).
- iv. Catharine<sup>3</sup>, who was born on March 21, 1808, and died on September 5, 1809, aged one year and five months. She was buried at Newark, New Jersey.
8. v. Elisha Boudinot<sup>3</sup>, who was born on September 7, 1809, at Baltimore, Maryland (see further).

9. vi. John Guest<sup>3</sup>, who was born on February 7, 1811, at Baltimore, Maryland (see further).
10. vii. Edward Johnson Coale<sup>3</sup>, who was born on August 15, 1813, at Newark, New Jersey (see further).
11. viii. Julia Maria<sup>3</sup> (see further).
12. ix. Benjamin Bakewell<sup>3</sup>, who was born on August 8, 1815, at Newark, New Jersey (see further).
- x. William Wallace<sup>3</sup>, who was born on August 4, 1823, at Newark, New Jersey. He never married. He attended Yale College and when he entered he was living in New York City. In 1843 he received the degree of B.A., and the year after he was graduated he remained as a resident graduate student, and the following year he entered the Divinity School. In 1846 William W. Atterbury received the degree of M.A. from Yale, and in 1888 he received the degree of D.D. from New York University. In September, 1846, he was licensed to preach, and he completed his course at the Divinity School in 1847. He then supplied the Congregational Church in Detroit, Michigan, for a year, and on October 13, 1848, he was ordained as an evangelist in New York City, and until May, 1854, he labored under a commission of the American Home Missionary Society in Lansing, Michigan, which had just been settled, and organized a Presbyterian church there. He was also chaplain of the State Legislature. In November, 1854, he was installed as pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Madison, Indiana, and continued in that relation until 1865. He then spent more than a year in Europe and the East. He preached for a year in the First Presbyterian Church in Cleveland, Ohio, during the absence of the pastor. In 1869 he succeeded the Reverend Doctor Philip Schaff, as Secretary of the New York Sabbath Committee, and after that devoted himself to preaching, lecturing, and writing for that work. He organized and conducted the Sunday Rest Congress at the Columbian Exposition at Chicago in 1893, and edited its principal papers in a volume entitled The Sunday Problem. As agent of the committee he was active in securing the enforcement of existing laws for guarding Sunday rest. He retired from the work in 1898, but he continued to reside in New York City. While spending the summer in Bennington, Vermont, he died of heart failure on August 6, 1911, at the age of eighty-eight years. He was buried at Woodlawn Cemetery in New York City.

3. SARAH<sup>2</sup> ATTERBURY (Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on March 7, 1781. She married her second cousin, Thomas Wright, son of William and Eleanor (Bakewell) Wright, of Sheffield, England. Their home was Duffield Bank, Hudson, New York, so named after the house of her great-aunt, Elizabeth (Woodhouse) Gifford, near Derby, England. Sarah (Atterbury) Wright's mother, Sarah (Bakewell) Atterbury, was brought up in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Gifford, after the death of her parents, and the tie between the families was doubtless a close one.

Thomas and Sarah (Atterbury) Wright had the following children:

14. i. Hannah, who was born on June 24, 1819 (see further).
15. ii. William, who was born on February 28, 1822 (see further).
- iii. Elizabeth, who was born on November 14, 1825, and died unmarried in 1882.
- iv. Annie, who was born on April 14, 1827, and married Joseph Roggen. They had no children.

4. WILLIAM BENJAMIN<sup>2</sup> ATTERBURY (Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on December 27, 1790, in the Parish of Livermore, near Liverpool, England, and died on November 10, 1842, at Wheeling, West Virginia. He married in 1819, at Baltimore, Maryland, Evelyn Anderson, who was born on February 13, 1801, on the eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay, Maryland, and died on December 31, 1876, at Salisbury, Missouri. She has been said to have been the sister of Alexander M. Anderson, a prominent citizen of Maryland, but the evidence to establish this has not been found.

William Benjamin and Evelyn (Anderson) Atterbury had the following children:

16. i. Sarah Bakewell<sup>3</sup>, who was born on November 16, 1825, at Hopkinsville, Kentucky (see further).
17. ii. William Benjamin<sup>3</sup>, who was born in or about 1826, at Hopkinsville, Kentucky (see further).
- iii. Frances Lapsley<sup>3</sup>, who was born in 1827, and died in February, 1894.
18. iv. Augusta Shewel<sup>3</sup> (see further).
19. v. Alexander<sup>3</sup> (see further).
20. vi. Elizabeth S.<sup>3</sup>, who was born in 1842 (see further).

5. BENJAMIN BAKEWELL<sup>2</sup> ATTERBURY (Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on August 20, 1793, at Loughborough, Leicestershire, England, and died on August 9, 1833, at 10 Grant Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He married on December 24, 1815, at New York City, Abigail Strong Hand, daughter of Jason and Charity (Strong) Hand, who was born on September 27, 1789, and died in 1818 at New York City. He then married, as his second wife, on September 3, 1820, at New York City, Elizabeth Ann Seaman, who was born on March 3, 1796, at New York City, and died on November 26, 1881, at Bedford Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She was the daughter of James and Elizabeth (Smith) Seaman.

Benjamin Bakewell Atterbury was brought to this country as a child in 1794. At maturity he entered the auction business in New York City, but, after a few years, engaged in the South American trade and made several voyages as a supercargo to Maracaibo and other ports. On one voyage, at the risk of seizure and summary execution by the Spaniards, he succeeded in running the blockade with a large cargo of supplies for the relief of General Bolivar and his forces, then engaged in fighting for the liberation of Venezuela. On another voyage, his vessel was captured by pirates, at that period numerous in the Caribbean Sea, but on their discovery, when looting the supercargo's cabin, of diplomas and insignia indicating his high Masonic rank, he was allowed to proceed on his voyage unmolested. Benjamin Bakewell Atterbury abandoned the uncertainties and dangers of the South American trade in 1827 and removed to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, where he was employed by Bakewell, Page and Bakewell, glass manufacturers, until his early death.

Benjamin Bakewell and Abigail Strong (Hand) Atterbury had the following children :

- i. George Hand<sup>3</sup>, who was born on November 27, 1816, at 59 Pearl Street, New York City. On August 11, 1847, at Pittsburgh, he enlisted in Company "A," 4th United States Artillery. He was later transferred to Company "K" and then to Company "E," 4th United States Infantry. He served under General Winfield Scott on the campaign into Mexico and died on June 19, 1848, at Ammasoki, Mexico. He was unmarried.
- ii. William Robert<sup>3</sup>, who was born on May 22, 1818, at 5 Gold Street, New York City. He died in 1820 at 137 Broadway, New York City.

Benjamin Bakewell and Elizabeth Ann (Seaman) Atterbury had the following children :

- iii. James Seaman<sup>3</sup>, who was born on May 20, 1821, at 5 Gold Street, New York City. He died on October 31, 1823, in New York City.
21. iv. Sarah Bakewell<sup>3</sup>, who was born on December 30, 1822, at 89 Roosevelt Street, New York City (see further).
22. v. James Seaman<sup>3</sup>, who was born on February 3, 1827, at 54 Roosevelt Street, New York City (see further).
23. vi. Elizabeth<sup>3</sup>, who was born on September 2, 1829, at 178 Second Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania (see further).
24. vii. Thomas Bakewell<sup>3</sup>, who was born on March 2, 1831, at 132 Second Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania (see further).
25. viii. Annie Gordon<sup>3</sup>, who was born on March 20, 1833, at 10 Grant Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania (see further).

6. ROBERT BAKEWELL<sup>2</sup> ATTERBURY (Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on August 31, 1798, at New Brunswick, New Jersey, and died on July 15, 1879, or August 6, 1879, at New York City. He married on May 20, 1820, Ann Maria Valleau, who was born on March 22, 1800, at New York City, and died on May 5, 1888, at Brooklyn, New York.

The following account is taken from The Family Book of Bakewell, Page, Campbell (1896) :

Robert Bakewell Atterbury, whose business was that of an expert accountant, in which capacity he was engaged by the leading business houses of New York, held a very high position in the Masonic order, which he joined in 1820. Two years later he entered the Columbian Commandery, of which De Witt Clinton was commander.

When La Fayette visited this country in 1824, Mr. Atterbury was present as one of the staff when the order of knighthood was conferred on the distinguished Frenchman by the Morton and Columbian Commanderies. The ceremony took place in St. John's Hall, Franklin Street, New York. On either side of the Eminent Commander, De Witt Clinton, stood Mr. Atterbury and Recorder Hayes, late cashier of the North River Bank.

The anti-Masonic excitement followed shortly after, and the Columbian Commandery, now senior commandery in this country, was the only organization which held regular meetings during that stormy period. Mr. Atterbury resigned his connection with the Columbian Commandery, of which he was at that time Eminent Commander, in 1859. At the time of his death, he was a member of the Adelphi Lodge and a member of the 32d degree of the Ancient Scottish Rite.

Robert Bakewell and Ann Maria (Valleau) Atterbury had the following children :

26. i. William<sup>3</sup>, who was born on July 1, 1821, at New York City (see further).
27. ii. Thomas Wright<sup>3</sup>, who was born on October 26, 1822, at New York City (see further).
- iii. Robert Bakewell<sup>3</sup>, who was born on July 2, 1824, and died on September 21, 1829, at New York City.
28. iv. John Gray<sup>3</sup>, who was born on March 16, 1826, at New York City (see further).
29. v. Elizabeth<sup>3</sup>, who was born on January 31, 1828, at New York City (see further).
- vi. Mary Ann<sup>3</sup>, who was born on September 2, 1829, at New York City.

30. vii. Francis<sup>3</sup>, who was born in 1831, at New York City
(see further).
31. viii. Sarah Ann<sup>3</sup>, who was born on February 7, 1833, at New York City (see further).
- ix. Charles<sup>3</sup>, who was born on March 19, 1835, and died on June 13, 1835.
- x. Caroline<sup>3</sup>, who was born on January 28, 1837, and died on February 25, 1838.
32. xi. Frederick A.<sup>3</sup>, who was born on April 17, 1841, at Niles, Michigan (see further).

THIRD GENERATION

7. LEWIS<sup>3</sup> ATTERBURY (Lewis<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) died on November 13, 1892, at Trenton, New Jersey, in his eighty-sixth year, and was, therefore, born in or about 1807, perhaps at Baltimore, Maryland. "Lewis Atterbury, Jr., of New York," married on September 6, 1843, at Suffield, Connecticut, Susan L. Butler, daughter of Asa Butler, of Suffield. She died in June, 1886.

Lewis and Susan L. (Butler) Atterbury had the following children:

- i. Lewis<sup>4</sup>, who died unmarried.
33. ii. Helen Butler<sup>4</sup>, who was born on January 26, 1848 (see further).
- iii. Walter Butler<sup>4</sup>, who was born on September 18, 1854. He was a broker and was connected with Atterbury and Bachman, New York City.

8. ELISHA BOUDINOT<sup>3</sup> ATTERBURY (Lewis<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on September 7, 1809, at Baltimore, Maryland, and died on October 19, 1885, at his home at 27 Church Street, Paterson, New Jersey. His will was made in 1885 and is recorded in Passaic County, New Jersey. The inventory was taken in 1886. He married on October 29, 1840, at the residence of the Honorable P. Dickerson, Paterson, New Jersey, Josephine Kirby, daughter of Joseph Kirby (1780-1833) and Maria Eliza Turner (1798-1872), his wife, and granddaughter of Joseph Kirby of Hull, England.

Maria Eliza Turner was a daughter of the John Turner who married Christina Moncrieff by New York marriage license dated February 20, 1779. According to family tradition, this John Turner was a son of a Sir John Turner. All that is known certainly is that he was the son of a John Turner and research into the matter of his possible parentage has uncovered only a small amount of biographical material.

John Turner, husband of Christina Moncrieff, was a Scot and as such was elected to the Saint Andrew's Society of New York in 1784. He was known as John Turner, Jr., and according to William M. MacBean, LL.D. (Aberdeen), the able historian of the Saint Andrew's Society, he was probably a son of John Turner, a merchant of Philadelphia, who was attainted as a loyalist, came to New York in 1782, and afterward moved to Shelburne, N. S. John Turner, Jr., was a merchant, head of the firm of John Turner and Company, importers of European and Indian goods, wholesale and retail. In October, 1800, he took his son, Archibald, into partnership and retired with "a genteel competency" to his country seat on the Greenwich Road, near Love Lane. There he died on May 10, 1801. His widow died on June 21, 1801, in her forty-first year. She was a daughter of a well-to-do widow, Jane Moncrieff, whose will was proved in New York on July 23, 1795. Christina was a niece of John Paterson, a printer of New York.

Josephine Kirby was born on October 20, 1822, at New York City, and died on May 14, 1902, at 27 Church Street, Paterson, New Jersey.

Elisha B. and Josephine (Kirby) Atterbury had the following children:

34. i. Lewis Boudinot<sup>4</sup>, who was born on July 19, 1842, at Paterson, New Jersey (see further).
35. ii. Elisha Boudinot<sup>4</sup>, who was born on November 30, 1844 (see further).
36. iii. John Turner<sup>4</sup>, who was born on October 19, 1847, at Paterson, New Jersey (see further).
37. iv. George Stone<sup>4</sup>, who was born on October 10, 1852, at Paterson, New Jersey (see further).
38. v. Sydney Dickerson<sup>4</sup>, who was born on June 4, 1854, at Paterson, New Jersey (see further).
39. vi. Robert Rennie<sup>4</sup>, who was born on April 27, 1864 (see further).

9. JOHN GUEST<sup>3</sup> ATTERBURY (Lewis<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on February 7, 1811, at Baltimore, Maryland, but in his infancy, during the War of 1812, was taken by his parents to Newark, New Jersey. On September 1, 1840, at Detroit, Michigan, he married Catharine Jones Larned, daughter of General Charles and Sylvia Easton (Colt) Larned, who was born on November 15, 1822.

After completing his education at Yale College, young Atterbury went to New York and studied law at the office of Wells and Bushnell, and was admitted to the bar. He practiced for several years and was appointed a commissioner of deeds. In 1836, because of ill health, he went to Michigan on a double mission of business and recuperation. He was commissioned by a capitalist to buy wild lands in Michigan and he traveled all over the interior on horseback, examining the lands, and in doing so he recovered his health. After several months of this work he went back to the east, settled up his business, and returned to Michigan to make it his permanent residence. In Detroit he went into partnership with Samuel Pitts, under the firm name of Pitts and Atterbury. After Pitts left the firm, Atterbury went into partnership with a Mr. Williams and this arrangement continued until the latter was elected judge of probate in 1840. In January, 1843, Atterbury resigned his law practice and prepared himself for the Presbyterian ministry, a step which he had been meditating for several years and which accorded better with his character and spiritual convictions than the legal profession. He first went to the Yale Theological School and heard lectures by Mr. Taylor, the noted divine, and then took a six months' course in Union Seminary. His first charge was the First Presbyterian Church at Flint, Michigan, and his next was at New Albany, Indiana, where he was minister from 1850 to 1865. He received the degree of Master of Arts at Yale in 1843; of Doctor of Divinity from Marietta College in 1863.

Broken down in health he recuperated in Detroit for a year, and was then appointed secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Education with headquarters in New York, where he remained until 1871. Then he returned to Detroit, where he organized the Calvary Church Congregation and was its pastor for three years. He was secretary to the Presbyterian Alliance of Detroit from its organization in 1872 until his death. He died on August 24, 1887, at Detroit, Michigan, at the age of seventy-six. His will was made in 1865 and is recorded in Essex County, New Jersey.

John G. and Catharine J. (Larned) Atterbury had the following children:

40. i. Charles Larned<sup>4</sup>, who was born on December 3, 1842, at Detroit, Michigan (see further).

- v. Sylvester Larned<sup>4</sup>, who was born on August 22, 1850, and who died on October 10, 1851.
- vi. Julia Allen<sup>4</sup>, who was born on August 9, 1852, and who died on February 26, 1853.
- vii. Mary<sup>4</sup>, who was born on January 24, 1854, and who died on January 27, 1854.
44. viii. Allen Williams<sup>4</sup>, who was born on June 24, 1856 (see further).
- ix. Elizabeth<sup>4</sup>, who was born on October 15, 1858, and who died on March 2, 1860.
- x. Edward Mann<sup>4</sup>, who was born on November 6, 1860, and who died on January 9, 1861.
- xi. Frederick Bryant<sup>4</sup>, who was born on August 24, 1862, and who died on September 22, 1879.
45. xii. William Wallace<sup>4</sup>, who was born on January 31, 1866, at New Albany, Indiana (see further).

10. EDWARD JOHNSON COALE<sup>3</sup> ATTERBURY (Lewis<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on August 15, 1813, at Newark, New Jersey, and died on March 12, 1887, at Trenton, New Jersey. His will was made and the inventory of his estate taken in 1887. The will is recorded in Mercer County, New Jersey. He married on December 20, 1837, Anna Eliza Bicknell, who was born on April 5, 1819, at Baltimore, Maryland, and who died on May 9, 1843, at Leeds, England. Edward J. C. Atterbury married, as his second wife, on September 25, 1846, his cousin, Mary B. Colt, daughter of John and Eliza P. (Boudinot) Colt, who died on April 6, 1849, at Paterson, New Jersey. He married, as his third wife, on April 29, 1851, Beulah Murray Livingston, daughter of Anthony R. Livingston. She was born on September 14, 1819, at New York City, and died on February 15, 1903. Edward J. C. Atterbury spent most of his life in Trenton, New Jersey, and Manchester, England.

Isaac Jope was born in 1827, at Pittsburgh, and died there on May 6, 1895, in the First Avenue Hotel. He was well known in Pittsburgh, having been a photographer on Fifth Avenue, near Market Street, for many years.

The Jopes lived in James Seaman Atterbury's house on Bedford Avenue on the side of Herron Hill with Elizabeth (Atterbury) Jope's mother, Elizabeth Ann (Seaman) Atterbury.

Isaac and Elizabeth (Atterbury) Jope had the following child:

- 72. i. Benjamin Atterbury, who was born on September 22, 1854, at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania (see further).

24. THOMAS BAKEWELL<sup>3</sup> ATTERBURY (Benjamin B.<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on March 2, 1831, at 132 Second Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He married in 1856, at 830 Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Sarah Montgomery, who was born on October 18, 1835, at 830 Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh, and died at Pittsburgh on January 1, 1927. She was the daughter of Alexander and Sarah Jane (Hamilton) Montgomery.

He died at his home on Ellsworth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, May 29, 1895. The following obituary appeared in the evening edition of the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph, of May 29th, 1895:

Thomas Bakewell Atterbury died at 10:00 o'clock A. M. and Pittsburgh loses one of the men who have contributed materially to the building up of this community as a centre of industry. While it was known that Mr. Atterbury had been sick, none of his relatives and numerous friends and associates in the various interests with which he was identified realized that the end was near. About a year ago he began to fail in health but not sufficiently to prevent him from pursuing his business interests. . . . .

Thomas Bakewell Atterbury was born in 1831. His parents came from England, and as a very young man he became a member of the firm of Warwick, Atterbury and Company, manufacturers of builders hardware. In 1860 Mr. Atterbury, together with his brother, James S. Atterbury, established the Atterbury Glass Company, of which he became President. Before the consolidation of the South Side with this city, Mr. Atterbury was for a time burgess of that borough and for a number of years was a member of the Birmingham Borough Council. . . . .

Mr. Atterbury was President of the Iron and Glass Dollar Savings Bank, director in the Mechanics National Bank and Vice President of the Monongahela Water Company, director in the Pittsburgh Clay Pot Company, and up to a few years ago was a director of the Central Traction Company, of which road he was one of the founders. He was one of the most public-spirited citizens, and took a live interest in all that concerned the welfare of the city. He is survived by his wife, three sons and one daughter, Mrs. J. R. McGinley, the wife of J. R. McGinley, prominently connected with the Westinghouse interests. The sons are: J. S.

Atterbury, Secretary-Treasurer of the Atterbury Glass Company; Jos. M. Atterbury, also with the Company, and Thomas B. Atterbury, purchasing agent for the Philadelphia Gas Company. The deceased was a member of the Third Presbyterian Church, Sixth Avenue. The funeral will take place from his late residence on Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

A similar account appeared in the Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette on May 29, 1895.

Another obituary notice reads:

In the death of Thomas B. Atterbury, which took place at his home in the East End, on Wednesday morning, one of Pittsburgh's great industries loses a representative man and there passed away the surviving founder of a leading glass firm of the Iron City. Mr. Atterbury was the personification of tireless energy, force of character and determination, united to sterling worth and integrity. These qualities won the ready tribute of trust, esteem and affection, and his death, which occurred in the sixty-fourth year of his age, evokes general and sincere sorrow. Mr. Atterbury was born in this city in 1831, and while still a lad turned his attention to the business in which he was destined to become a leader. He mastered every detail of the glass business while he was still a young man and he soon became the leading spirit in the extensive establishment which ultimately became the Atterbury Glass Company, of which the deceased was president. With his brother, the late James S. Atterbury, the concern became one of the leading firms of the country, noted for the excellence and originality of its designs. . . . .

Thomas B. and Sarah (Montgomery) Atterbury had the following children:

- i. Thomas<sup>4</sup>, who was born on October 21, 1857, at First Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and died on November 22, 1857.
73. ii. Sarah Jane<sup>4</sup>, who was born on October 13, 1858, at 830 Penn Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania (see further).
- iii. James Seaman<sup>4</sup>, who was born on December 21, 1860, at 830 Penn Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He died at 4951 Ellsworth Avenue, Pittsburgh, on September 2, 1929. He was unmarried. He was prominent in Pittsburgh business circles until his retirement. As a young man, he was employed by the Atterbury Glass Company, of which his father was president, and became secretary-treasurer of this company. He was a director of the Pittsburgh Clay Pot Company, and associated with many philanthropies and many charitable enterprises. He was a member of the Third Presbyterian Church.

- iv. Joseph Montgomery<sup>4</sup>, who was born on August 13 or 16, 1862, at Tenth Street, South Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and died at 4951 Ellsworth Avenue, Pittsburgh, on August 16, 1928. He was unmarried, and was connected with the Atterbury Glass Company.
- v. Thomas Bakewell<sup>4</sup>, who was born on October 31, 1867, at Tenth Street, South Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and died September 23, 1923, at Atlantic City, New Jersey. He was buried in Pittsburgh. He married Louise Goodman, who survived him. They had no children. He was purchasing agent for the Philadelphia Gas Company. He was very interested in music and played the cello and the flute. He appeared in orchestral concerts.

Dodge, who was born on May 16, 1874, at Paterson, New Jersey.

Robert Rennie Atterbury was educated at Bishops College School, Lennoxville, Province of Quebec, Canada, and at Phillips Andover. He is a stock broker, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and an ex-member of the Governing Committee of the New York Stock Exchange, and also treasurer and a member of the Executive Committee of the Stock Clearing Corporation. His home is in Paterson, New Jersey.

Robert R. and Eleanor G. (Dodge) Atterbury had the following children:

- i. Richard Stockton<sup>5</sup>, who was born on October 4, 1902, at Paterson, New Jersey, and is unmarried.
- ii. Robert Rennie<sup>5</sup>, who was born on March 26, 1904, at Paterson, New Jersey, and married on September 24, 1932, at Ridgewood, New Jersey, Beatrice M. Tether, daughter of F. E. Tether. Their home is in New York City.
- iii. Eleanor Godwin<sup>5</sup>, who was born on February 17, 1908, at Wyckoff, New Jersey, and is unmarried.

40. CHARLES LARNED<sup>4</sup> ATTERBURY (John G.<sup>3</sup>, Lewis<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on December 3, 1842, at Detroit, Michigan. He was married at New York City, on January 7, 1868, by the Rev. Dr. John G. Atterbury, at Dr. Adam's Church, to Katharine Mitchell Dow, daughter of Marcus French and Caroline (Mitchell) Dow, of New York City and Detroit, who was born in New York City on February 8, 1844, and died there on December 21, 1921.

Charles Larned Atterbury was prepared for college in private schools in Detroit and New Albany, Indiana, and was graduated at Yale in 1864, with the degree of B.A. He was the "Wooden Spoon" man of his class, Townsend Speaker and a member of the Scroll and Key Society. He studied law in Detroit, in the office of Lothrop and Duffield, and afterward practiced his profession in that city from 1866 to 1874. In the latter year he removed to New York, entered the firm of Betts, Atterbury and Betts (subsequently Atterbury and Mullally) and became solicitor for the Erie Railway Company, later becoming general counsel of the company, and finally assistant to the president. In 1884 Charles L. Atterbury left the Erie to become general counsel of the Chicago and Atlantic Railway Company, and the Pullman Palace Car Company. Later, as one of the first to specialize in corporation law, he organized the National Cordage Company, one of the first of our so-called "trusts." Thereafter he devoted his time to the formation of the Houston Oil Company, the consolidation of the United Railroads of San Francisco, and acted as counsel for the United Railways Investment Company, the Sierra and San Francisco Power Company, the Railroads and Development Power Company, the Philadelphia Company, the Pittsburgh Railway Light and Power Company, and other corporations. Charles L. Atterbury was a man of unusual ability in his own field, and by his legal acumen, balanced judgment, and human sympathy commanded the respect and admiration of all with whom he was associated. His knowledge of law governing corporations and their activities was wide and accurate, as his great success in this particular department amply testifies. In the social realm, his influence spread about him good cheer and a spirit of kindness and geniality, the qualities that led to his selection as the most popular man in his class at Yale. He was a member of the New York Bar Association and served on its executive committee. In spite of having to make his own way and the continuous hard work he gave to his profession, he developed a fine esthetic sense and became a lover of the fine arts. He was one of the original members of the Grolier Club, organized by bibliophiles to advance the art of printing in this country, and with McKim, Mead and White, the architects; Warner, the sculptor; Ryder, the painter, and Daniel Cottier, the art dealer, formed a small group known as the "Jereboam Club," whose meetings were given over to discussions of art of all kinds at a time when this country was emerging from an era of bad taste. Charles Larned Atterbury died at New York City on November 10, 1914.

Charles L. and Katharine M. (Dow) Atterbury had the following child:

- i. Grosvenor<sup>5</sup>, who was born on July 7, 1869, at Detroit, Michigan. On March 24, 1923, at New York City, he married Dorothy Axtell Johnstone, daughter of Homer Clifton Johnstone, of Summit, New Jersey. She was born on December 9, 1899, at St. Paul, Minnesota. They have no children. Grosvenor Atterbury attended the Berkeley School in New York, and was graduated at Yale, with the degree of B.A., in 1891. After spending six months abroad, he began the study of architecture at Columbia University, his course there being supplemented by experience in practical building and by further study at the École des Beaux Arts, Atelier Blondel, Paris, in 1894-1895. Returning to New York City in 1896, Grosvenor Atterbury established himself in practice as an architect, and since then has attained high rank in his profession. He was the architect of the first of the Phipps Model Tenements, New York; The Children's Village of the Hartford Orphan Asylum; The American Wing, Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York; The Phipps Institute, in Philadelphia; buildings for the New York Hospital at Bloomingdale; the Psychiatric Clinic at the Johns Hopkins Hospital; The Russell Sage Foundation Building, New York; The Gotham Hospital, New York; The Institute of Human Relations, Yale University; Forest Hills Gardens, Long Island, a model town built by the Russell Sage Foundation; The Bessemer and Fulton Buildings, and the Phipps Natatorium, Pittsburgh; the restoration of the governor's room, cupola and other portions of the New York City Hall; the First Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue, New York; Connecticut Hall, Yale University; industrial housing developments at Worcester, Massachusetts, Erwin and Kingsport, Tennessee, and elsewhere. In addition, he has designed many handsome private residences. He is consulting architect for Johns Hopkins University. Grosvenor Atterbury is especially interested in town planning and home building, model tenements and hospitals. In the World War he was chairman of the war housing committee of the National Housing Association, and was a member of the army educational commission, of which Professor John Erskine of Columbia was chairman, sent to France by the Y. M. C. A. to supervise, as an advisory board to G-5, General Headquarters, the development of instruction, and the preparation of syllabi and course material of the educational system of the American Expeditionary Forces. He was supervising architect of the American Army University at Beaune, France, and an associate director of the department of fine and applied arts, and head of the housing and city planning division of the department of citizenship, of the army educational commission. Grosvenor Atterbury served in Squadron "A," cavalry, New York National Guard, from 1896 through 1901. At Yale he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Chi Delta Theta, Psi Upsilon and Scroll and Key Societies, graduated with Philosophical Oration stand and honors and was a Townsend Speaker. He was editor of the Yale Record, and also of the Yale Literary Magazine. He is a member of the Yale Elizabethan Club and a fellow of the American Institute of Architects (past chairman of committee on contracts and specifications), associate of the National Academy of Design, and a member of the Society of Beaux Arts Architects, New York Tenement Housing Committee, the National Housing Association (director), the Society of Columbia Architects, National City Planning Institute, Institute of Social Sciences, and the Architectural League of New York (president, from 1915 to 1917). He has written extensively on subjects pertaining to architecture and city planning, devoting much of his time during the past twenty-five years to research studies in economic construction, particularly as applied to workingmen's homes, under the patronage of the Russell Sage Foundation and others. His home is in New York City.

41. KATHARINE BOUDINOT<sup>4</sup> ATTERBURY (John G.<sup>3</sup>, Lewis<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on June 15, 1844, at Detroit, Michigan, and died on February 17, 1931, at Washington, District of Columbia. 73. SARAH JANE<sup>4</sup> ATTERBURY (Thomas B.<sup>3</sup>, Benjamin B.<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on October 13, 1858, at 830 Penn Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She married there on October 7, 1879, John Rainey McGinley, who was born on September 14, 1851, at Cresson, Pennsylvania, and died on November 29, 1926, at New York City. He was the son of John and Mary Logan (Rainey) McGinley. The following editorial comment on his death appeared in the Pittsburgh Gazette Times of December 1, 1926:

John R. McGinley was one of the, in popular phrase, old-time Pittsburghers who were privileged in the evening of a life that had been exceptionally active to contemplate benefits to a great community, in the production of which he had taken an important part. For a period of some 30 years his name was one of those most frequently in the news. That period began in the eighties of the last century and ran through the first decade of the unfolding century. It was in this time that Pittsburgh received its most marked impetus to material and cultural advancement that constantly restimulated, is felt to this day.

It was at the beginning of a new order of public utility service that Mr. McGinley came actively on the scene. He was one of the founders of the Philadelphia Company whose original and highest service to the community was the introduction of natural gas to the people of Pittsburgh on a commercial plane. In this enterprise he became associated with George Westinghouse, with whom he subsequently entered upon the development of the electric light and power industry. Coincidentally, or later, he was interested in the erection of the outstanding Westinghouse industries that have been mighty factors in the upbuilding of the Pittsburgh district. And these are but a few of the many productive and manufacturing enterprises to the development of which he devoted himself. . . . .

The following editorial notice of Mr. McGinley was printed in the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph of December 1, 1926:

When the term "captains of industry" first came into popular use, it was applied, among others, to Mr. McGinley. He was one of that band of men with vision and energy to make their dreams come true, who helped to make their city and district known as "the workshop of the world." The inception and development of our natural gas, electric light and power, electric manufacturing and airbrake industries were due to this group of pioneers, among whom Mr. McGinley occupied a conspicuous place. To the inventive genius of George Westinghouse was joined the financial talent of Mr. McGinley and other partners and advisors, forming a combination that brought abundant success to enterprises now ranked among our giant industries.

During the years of well earned leisure that preceded his death Mr. McGinley in his New York home kept in touch with the continued progress of the city to whose greatness he had made such substantial contributions, and there are many among our older residents who will now recall the services of this sterling citizen who was always proud to call himself a Pittsburgher.

The following account of his life and career was also published at the time of his death:

John Rainey McGinley, who died yesterday at his New York residence, 521 Park Avenue, after an illness of several months, was one of the dominant factors in the industrial development of Pittsburgh, and in his activities he ranked with Carnegie, Westinghouse and H. C. Frick, who were his contemporaries.

Mr. McGinley was born in Cresson, Pa., in 1851, son of John and Mary Logan McGinley, and he came to Pittsburgh to join Duff's College in 1871. He later became secretary of the school but left to become connected with the Carbon Bronze Company, which was then located on Water Street, this city.

When George Westinghouse, the inventor of the airbrake, entered his investigations and activities in the natural gas resources of this district, Mr. McGinley joined him and from then until Mr. Westinghouse died in 1914 both were closely associated in all the Westinghouse enterprises. When the Philadelphia Natural Gas Company was organized, Mr. McGinley was elected its first secretary, but he later became contracting agent and then vice president and general manager of the company. He relinquished this position to enter other activities as Mr. Westinghouse's associate. He was one of the organizers of the Westinghouse Electric, now the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

He was a director in the East End Electric Light Company and the Allegheny County Light Company, which corporations were the pioneers in the development of the electric light business in this city, and out of which grew the Duquesne Light Company of today. He was also a director in the Allegheny Heating Company, a subsidiary of the Philadelphia Natural Gas Company, and during his connection with that enterprise, he constructed in lower Allegheny the largest gasometer that had ever been built in this section.

In conjunction with Mr. Westinghouse, Mr. McGinley organized in 1888, the East Pittsburgh Improvement Company and acquired a tract of land along the Pennsylvania railroad in the Turtle Creek valley, on which are now located the Westinghouse Electric Works at East Pittsburgh and Turtle Creek, the Air-brake Works at Wilmerding and the Westinghouse Foundries at Trafford City.

In conjunction with P. W. Morgan and John F. Miller, vice chairman of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, he organized in 1890 the East Pittsburgh National Bank, which has since become the First National Bank of Wilmerding.

Outside of his activities in the Westinghouse industries, he was for many years president of the R. D. Nuttall Company, which has since become a part of the electric company. He was chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company and the Gary Screw and Bolt Company of Gary, Ind.

In 1901 he acquired the Duff Manufacturing Company, which manufactures the Barrett lifting jack for railroads, and he developed that business until it is today one of the leading railroad appliance companies in the country and of which his son, Thomas A. McGinley, is president.

In 1910 he joined Charles M. Schwab in the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company, of which he became one of the largest stockholders. He was chairman of the board of directors of that concern for many years and a director until his death.

Apart from his activities in the industrial field he also became prominent in the financial world of Pittsburgh as well as New York. He was for years a director in the Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., and in the Iron City bank until it was merged with the former. He was a director in the Fidelity Title and Trust Company of this city and also a director in the Fidelity Title Insurance Company and the East Pittsburgh Savings and Trust Company. He was for years a director in the Columbia National Bank of New York City.

Mr. McGinley was a member of the Duquesne Club of Pittsburgh since it was founded and its president for two terms. . . . .

Sarah J. (Atterbury) McGinley was educated at Dr. Pershing's Private School in Pittsburgh. Her residence is in Pittsburgh, but she also has homes in New York City and Princeton, New Jersey, and at Eaglis, Manchester-by-the-Sea, Massachusetts. In New York City she is a member of All Souls Unitarian Church of which her grandmother Sarah (Bakewell) Atterbury was a founder. The "Working Girls' Vacation Society," which was founded in that church in 1883, has an auxiliary there, of which Sarah J. (Atterbury) McGinley was for some years president. She spends most of her time at Eaglis, her summer home, where her lovely gardens, noted for their design and color, have received the medal which is the highest award of the Horticultural Society of Boston, Massachusetts. She is a member of that Society and of the New York Horticultural Society, and of the advisory council and of the corporation of the New York Botanical Garden, and also a member of the Garden Club of America and the North Shore Garden Club (Manchester, Massachusetts).

It is due to Mrs. McGinley's interest in the Atterbury family that this genealogy has been compiled.

Jope, Elizabeth<sup>3</sup> (Atterbury) Jope, Benjamin B.<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on June 9, 1881, at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and is living at El Segunda, California. He was named after a friend of his father, Dr. Millard Lee. He married in or about 1910, Blanche Hunzberger, who was born in California, and died as the result of an automobile accident on February 23, 1932.

Lee M. and Blanche (Hunzberger) Jope had the following child:

- i. Virginia, who was born in 1913 and died on February 23, 1932, in an automobile accident with her mother.

119. THOMAS ATTERBURY MCGINLEY (Sarah J.<sup>4</sup> (Atterbury) McGinley, Thomas B.<sup>3</sup>, Benjamin B.<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on July 18, 1880, at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He married on September 15, 1906, at Cleveland, Ohio, Gertrude Holden, daughter of Liberty Emery and Delia Elizabeth (Bulkeley) Holden, who was born on September 15, 1889, at Cleveland, Ohio. They were divorced and Gertrude (Holden) McGinley now lives at Milton, Massachusetts. Thomas A. McGinley married, as his second wife, on November 22, 1924, Estelle (Schnabel) Floyd (Mrs. Thomas Walter Floyd), of Pittsburgh. She had, by her first marriage, two children: (a) Mary Elizabeth Floyd, who was born on May 5, 1912, at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; (b) Walter Ingram Floyd, who was born on December 29, 1914, at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Thomas Atterbury McGinley was educated at Shadyside Academy, Pittsburgh, later attending Lawrenceville (New Jersey) School, preparatory to his entering Yale University, from which he was graduated in the Class of 1901. After completing his college course, he entered the employ of the Duff Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of lifting jacks, Pittsburgh, and after working through the various departments and acquiring a thorough knowledge of the business, he subsequently became vice-president and general manager, after which he was elected to the position of president and director of the corporation, which office he ably filled until January 1, 1929, when the Duff Manufacturing Company purchased A. O. Norton, Inc., of Moline, Illinois, and A. O. Norton, Ltd., of Coaticook, Canada, its Canadian subsidiary. The new corporation formed is called the Duff-Norton Manufacturing Company, of which Thomas A. McGinley is president. He is also a director of the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, the Union Switch and Signal Company, the Woods Run Settlement Association and the Allegheny General Hospital. He was appointed in 1926, by the Governor of Pennsylvania, a justice of the peace, in Sewickly Heights, Pennsylvania, where he lives.

During the period of the World War, the Duff Manufacturing Company (now the Duff-Norton Manufacturing Company) used their plant entirely in war work, and Thomas A. McGinley was appointed District Manager, Air Service, Aircraft Production, United States Army, at New York City, from early in 1918 until December, 1918, and was appointed Major, Air Service, Production, United States Army, in November, 1918, but the commission was not accepted because the war ended at that time.

Thomas A. and Gertrude (Holden) McGinley had the following children:

- i. John Rainey, who was born on October 28, 1908, at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He attended St. Paul's School, and was graduated at Harvard in the Class of 1931, with the degree of B.A. He was on the staff of The Harvard Crimson. He is employed by the Marine Midland Trust Company of New York City, and is an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve.
- ii. Elizabeth Bulkeley, who was born on September 21, 1913, at Sewickley, Pennsylvania. She was graduated at Milton Academy, Milton, Massachusetts, cum laude, and is at Vassar College, where she is president of the Class of 1936.
- iii. Gertrude Holden, who was born on November 12, 1915, at Sewickley, Pennsylvania, and is a student at Milton Academy, Milton, Massachusetts.

120. LAURA MCGINLEY (Sarah J.<sup>4</sup> (Atterbury) McGinley, Thomas B.<sup>3</sup>, Benjamin B.<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on September 4, 1881, at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She attended Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Connecticut. She married, at Pittsburgh, on April 6, 1904, Lucius James Knowles, son of Francis Bangs and Hester A. (Greene) Knowles. He was born in March, 1879, at Worcester, Massachusetts, and died in November, 1920, at London, England. Lucius J. Knowles was a graduate of Harvard, and was the president of Crompton and Knowles Loom Works in Worcester, Massachusetts.

Laura (McGinley) Knowles married, as her second husband, on May 10, 1922, at New York City, Pierpont Langley Stackpole, namesake of his relative, Samuel Pierpont Langley, the distinguished astronomer and scientist, and son of Stephen Henry and Julia Langley (Faunce) Stackpole, both of Boston, Massachusetts. Pierpont L. Stackpole was born on February 16, 1875, at Brookline, Massachusetts. He prepared at Colgate Academy, Hamilton, New York, and was a student at Colgate University from 1892 to 1895. He was graduated at Harvard in the Class of 1897, with the degree of B.A., and received the degree of LL.B. there in 1900. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. In 1900 he was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar, and since that time has been practicing at Boston, where he is a member of the firm of Warner, Stackpole and Bradlee. Pierpont Langley and Laura (McGinley) (Knowles) Stackpole have no children. Pierpont L. Stackpole is a director and member of the executive committee of the Crompton and Knowles Loom Works, the Merchants National Bank and the Haverhill Gas Light Company; a trustee of the South End Association and Children's Aid Association.

During the World War, he was a lieutenant colonel of field artillery in the United States Army, and served with the American Expeditionary Forces from September, 1917, to September, 1919. He was at the Front in the principal American offensives, and served in Germany with the Army of Occupation. He was Civilian Aide to the Secretary of War, First Corps Area, from 1922 to 1929. From the United States, he received the Distinguished Service Medal, from Belgium, the Order of the Crown, and from France, the rank of officer in the Order of l'Étoile Noire de Bénin for his services in the war.

Lucius J. and Laura (McGinley) Knowles had the following children:

- i. Lucius James, who was born on November 18, 1904, at London, England. He attended St. Paul's School, and received the degree of B.A. at Harvard, in the Class of 1927. In the following year, he attended Cambridge University, Cambridge, England. He received the degree of M.A. from Harvard, and is at present a candidate there for his Ph.D.

121. JEAN RAY MCGINLEY (Sarah J.<sup>4</sup> (Atterbury) McGinley, Thomas B.<sup>3</sup>, Benjamin B.<sup>2</sup>, Job<sup>1</sup>) was born on June 10, 1885, at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and attended Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Connecticut. She married on April 26, 1905, at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Edward Small Moore, son of William Henry and Ada Waterman (Small) Moore, who was born on January 6, 1881, at Chicago, Illinois.

Edward Small Moore prepared at the Harvard School, Chicago, Illinois; the Rugby School, Kenilworth, Illinois, and the Hotchkiss School, Lakeville, Connecticut. He was a member of the Class of 1904, at Sheffield Scientific School, Yale University, where he belonged to Book and Snake (the Cloister), but left the university during his senior year. He started as a clerk in the superintendent's office of the Rock Island Lines in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Later he was a clerk in the auditor's office of the Frisco system in St. Louis, Missouri, of which in 1907 he was appointed statistician. In 1908 he became assistant superintendent of the Rock Island-Frisco Terminal Company with offices at St. Louis. He was appointed in 1909 assistant to the president of the Rock Island Lines, with offices in Chicago, Illinois, and in 1910, was vice-president of the Rock Island Lines and a director of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, and the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Later he became a director of the Liberty National Bank, New York City. He resigned as vice-president of the Rock Island Lines in 1915, and for the next four years he was vice-president of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company. After the war he was vice-president of the Finance and Trading Corporation, of Chicago, Illinois. He is now a director of the National Biscuit Company; American Can Company; Lehigh Valley Railroad; Park and 46th Street Corporation; Textile Banking Company, Inc.; Continental Bank and Trust Company (New York); New York Trust Company (trustee); William Henry Barnum and Company, Inc., and Continental Mortgage Guarantee Company.

During the World War, from August, 1917, until January, 1918, he was director of divisional organization with the American Red Cross at the national headquarters at Washington, District of Columbia. He was commissioned major in the Air Service, United States Army, on January 25, 1918, with assignment to the Bureau of Aircraft Production, and remained there until his discharge from the service on December 12, 1918.
